Current position:

Coach

When I joined Equilibria:

October of 2007

Why I joined Equilibria:

After meeting with current coaches and executive staff, I felt the organization was on a path destined for success. I could see the vision and clear objectives they had collectively set forth, and hoped my diverse experiences could offer an added stepping stone in that progression.

The product itself was extremely enticing to me. To utilize something that is so evident and visible in our daily lives, to bring improvement to our professional and personal relationships, is absolutely priceless.

My professional background:

Former professional baseball player for the Toronto Blue Jays
V.P. of Operations for Ag based corporation in CA
Founder and CEO of Olympus Energy

My educational background:

B.S. in Economics and Marketing from St. Mary's College (CA)

My family and general interests/hobbies:

My wife Lauren and I were married in Jamaica in December of 2007. We enjoy traveling the world looking for the hottest scuba diving spots available. You'll often find us enjoying all types of outdoor activities.
