

Jorge Pinheiro

E-Colors:

Yellow/Red

Current position:

Level II Coach

When I joined Equilibria:

November 2009

Why I joined Equilibria:

I have always worked in training and people development. The opportunity to join the Equilibria team and work with a company which has a vision of realizing potential and a suite of state-of-the-art coaching materials and processes, was an opportunity I could not refuse.

My professional background

Twenty years in the Petroleum industry, I was previously a manager in oilfield supply chain management and later combined my people skills, QHES and training experience and moved into HR and people development.

Having worked with several drilling and production companies my position prior to Equilibria was as QHES / training supervisor with Devon Energy in Brazil.

My educational background:

Business University in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and a career full of learning in QHES and training.

My family and general interests/hobbies:

I live, love and share my life with my wife Idalia in Rio das Ostras (Oyster River in English) a small tourist city located north of Rio de Janeiro.

I'm fascinated by people and cultural differences. I enjoy entertaining, music, all sports and keeping fit.
