When I joined Equilibria:

June 2010

Why I joined Equilibria:

When I first saw Lewis Senior facilitating a session for one of my clients in Brazil back in 2002, I recall very clearly thinking to myself that what I had just been exposed to could change the way I manage and progress everything I do in my life. It did, and after successfully adopting an e-colours approach to both my professional and personal life for the next eight years. I finally decided to join Equilibria so I could take my passion for coaching and sharing knowledge to another level.

My professional background

After 10 years in the North Sea, I became a manager in Supply Chain Management and later combined my people skills; logistics experience and my aptitude for IT to project lead the implementation of management information systems for materials, logistics and CMMS systems on various projects around the world. I have worked always in the upstream oil & gas sector and some mining projects in regions around the world including the North Sea, West Africa, Sakhalin, Kazakhstan, Azerbaijan, Brazil and far Eastern Siberia.

Since 2004 I have been self employed as a SCM Consultant specializing in, people and materials logistics, contract performance measurement and more recently in early 2009 as a Contracts Specialist specifically for Chevrans Production Operations group in Angola.

In June 2010, I finally joined the Equilibria family to pursue coaching full time.

My educational background:

Grammar school in West Yorkshire, UK
Gillingham College of further education a career full of learning in SCM, Leadership, HES, Management of Major Incidents, QA, TQM, Lean Six Sigma etc.

My family and general interests/hobbies:

I live, love and share my life with my beloved Daniele and our two dogs Gringo and Helga. I'm fascinated by people and cultural differences. I speak fluent Portuguese and enjoy entertaining, all sports and keeping fit. I am a golfing addict and at the age of 46 with a 15 handicap and having played the game for 30 years I still aspire to shoot a perfect round of par golf every time I step on the first tee box.
